TO THE EDITOR OF THE N. V. TRIBUNE.

When hordilities between the Northern and Southern Rates broke out, and especially prior to that time, I outertained, I confess, deep and strong projudices against fou and your paper, on account of your violent attanks apon Southern interests and institutions. But since that me I have really sought the Tribuse to learn the truth, there is a frank and manly directness in your oclumns which I admire, and therefore I now make an appeat to your generously to admit this communication into the following of the Tribuse. Surely there can be no longer any existing reason why Northern papers should denied to the stain and stab the reputation of Southern men; and I suppose the press will be munited no longer, and a difference of opinion up longer by regarded as treason. The rearch of a good man is for truth. To set that he

I know there is not that the ground to suspect me that sere is to suspect President Johnson himself.

First—There was abssuce of all motive on my part, on her provided the suspect provided the substantial president Johnson was to acquire a dazzling over in the event of Lincoln's death.

Second—A paper is found in President Johnson's room, for the assassination, signed by the assassin himself, to effect that he (Booth) does not wish to troable him ohnson), but wants to know if he (Johnson) is in. Now unsider this note is from a private clitzen to a high ficial, and it is certain that if it had been sent by any her man, at any other time, to any other official except one most deeply interested in the event about to uppen, it would have implied previous intimacy and torcourse, and a wish to have an interview without treeses, which the writer expected, circumstances additing it.

continuant leaves the side of the dying Fresident to inform the new incumbent of his great good fortune, which lilled him with uniterable distress.

Now, mark me, I do not say that all this creates a suspicion in my mind of the completity of President Johnston in the foul work upon President Lincoln. But this I do say, that if such circumstances could be so well taken against the Hon. B. G. Harris, of Maryland; Ben Wood, of New York, or Mr. Vallandigham of Ohio, they would have been received in the Bureau of Military Justice as testimony as strong as proofs from Holy Writ. These facts may settong as proofs from Holy Writ. These facts may settong as proofs from Holy Writ. These facts may settong as proofs from Holy Writ. These facts may settong as proofs from Holy Writ. These facts may settong as proofs from Holy Writ. These facts may settong as proofs from Holy Writ. These facts may set the position and personal consequence to the breath of his nontrile, a good and sufficient reason why the excited public mind of the people of the United States, which has been lashed into furly by a should believe that there was evidences in manufactured and traitors"—of having "Incited, concerted and prooquered" the assassimation of President Lincoln. But, at all events, these facts ought to teach President Johnson a lesson of moderation and tharity to all those acapacted. I feel confident no fact, susceptible of being tortured by the shrowdest ingenuity into a coloring so untavorable, can be shown in truth against President Davis or myself, nor, do I believe, against any one of the geniteure manued in the proclamation.

Again, I am denounced as a traitor and rebel in this proclamation. Let the world judge between President Johnson and myself, not according to the law of might, but according to the raw of might be continued. The coloring so manued in the proclamation.

For four years prior to the accession of Mississippi, I was absent from the State, and moderate and the states are sovereign and experimental principles as init whicher?

When Mississippi secoded I felt it to be my duty to leave the service of the United States, return home, and subject myself to the orders of my State; for the secred same of State rights and State soverignty, the doctrine of the fathers, I was willing to stake my life, my forsone, and all my hopes. Mr. Johnson thought it his duty when Tennessee secoded to hold on to his place, to set at nought the s tion of his State, which had so often bonored him, and to place himself under the protection of the United States. He took sides with power; I took sides with weakness. Our motives are known only to the living God; but I claim to have been honest, said; sacrideing and patriotic in the course I pursued, and I leave to posterity to decide whether power has been given on earth to make wrong right. The fortune of war cannot change a principle, although it may revolutionize a government.

I cannot but think this proclamation was not intended for me, but it was to furnish an excuse to deal harship with President Jefferson Davis, if arrested. A purer patriot, a more conscientious Christian, and a more honorable gentleman than he never lived in any age or country. All he has done has been in obedime to the behiesis of the sovereign States composing the confederacy. He leaves, if the power and cruelty of his ensmited make it necessary for him to leave, with the profit consciousness of having nobly done his whole duty.

More true joy Marcelhos sailed feels.

The States were once considered sovereignies, and as such, challenged our respect and obedience. Now, after a way of four years of unexampted suffering, distinguished by tents of gallantry, that reduct the highest honor upon the parties engaged, after the two parties have been recognized by themselves and by all the civilized world as beliggeries, to conclude the war by simply regarding the armies of the United States as a huge poes comination, and the opposing afmires as so many felons resisting arrest, is a most lame and impotent conclusion, which will shock the civilization of the age, and reader this mighty war a tragical farce.

There was no need of offering twenty-five thousand dolars reward for my arrest. If I feet the least assurance of being tried according to the recognized principles of hw, without a pre-judgment, without the arbitrariness of a court acting under the instructions of this "Bureau of Military Justice," and without conclusions of the way, which no doubt will geatly for my unamine. With respect,

BOARD OF Aldermen.

THE STREET CLEANING CONTRACT—INTENDED BAID AGAINST CONCERT SALOONS—HOSPITALITY TO GENERAL SHERIDAN, ETC.

The Board of Aldermen held its regular meeting yes-terday at two P. M., Alderman Masterson presiding. A communication was read by Alderman Fanley, which had been sent to the Mayor by D. B. Allen, stating the probable passage of General Speridan Through this city on his way to assume an important command, and suggesting that the courtesies which had been extended to others should be extended to him. Referred to Comto ethers should be extended to him. Referred to Commisted on National Affairs with power.

A resolution was presented by Alderman Ottiwell, representing that in view of the detriment the establishment of a ferry at the foot of Spring street would cause to the Atlantic Mail Steamship Company, who rented the adjoining slip, the sale of said ferry station be postponed for twenty days to enable the company to state their case. Alderman Nouron, on behalf of his constituents, opposed any action, on the ground that the establishment of a ferry would be of great advantage to the local residents.

BOSPITALITIES TO GENERAL SHEEDAR.

Alderman Parkey stated that, hearing, since the reading of the communication before referred to, that General Sheridan was in New York, staying at the Fifsh avenue Hotel, he begged to move that the hospitalities of the sity be tendered to that distinguished soldier.

The motion was unanimously adopted, and forwarded to the Board of Councilmen for their concurrence.

ETREET CLEANING CONTAGE.

A series of resolutions was introduced by Alderman Norrow in reference to the proposed contract for street cleaning, disclaiming and repudiating the contemplated action of certain parties acting in the name of the Board of Aldermen. He contended that all previous contracts had miserably failed to attain the desired object—the cleaniliness of the city—and asserted that there could be no improvement on the system at present in use.

The resolutions provided for the notification of the Mayor and other parties connected with the movement. The resolutions were adopted and forwarded to the other board for their approval.

A resolution, introduced by Alderman McKmorr was passed, providing for the sweeping of the paved streets of the city south of Fifty-ninth street twice each week, from the last pres. to October 1.

A communication from the City Inspector was received in reference to the removing of certain nuisances over which he had no power, and upon which he understood it required the action of the Board of Health, which body he found it hard to get convened.

On this communication the Mayor to convene a meeting of Curious Seduction Case.

Before Judge Wells.

MAY 22.—Anne E. Baldwin vs. Frank Perkins.—The plaintiff in this action avers that on or about the 29th of April, 1864, she was seduced by the defendant under promise of marriage, and was subjected to such pain of body and mind as would entitle her to a verdict of five thousand dollars damages at the hands of a jury. Miss Baldwin, who is a remarkably plain woman, about thir-ty-five or forty years of age, testified that she was drug-ged by the defendant, and taken to a house of assigna-ty-five or forty years of age, testified that she was drugged by the defendant, and taken to a house of assignation in Greene street, where her ruin was accomplished, the defendant all the time promising to make an honest woman of her. Mary Supples, Mary Green and Johanna Singleton all testified to the good character of the plantiff, saying they believed her to be a virtuous woman until she fell into the bands of the defendant.

The defence set up was that so far from the defendant being the seducer, he was the party seduced. He said he would not have been led astray probably had he not been drinking rather freely, and ridiculed the idea of his ever having made any promise of marriage to a woman he had "picked up on the street." He further stated that he was a total stranger to the plaintiff until the night of the alleged seduction; that he paid her two dollars for the pleasure that he derived from her society, and never dreamed for a moment that any further demands would be made upon him. He also stated that a charge of bastardy had been made against him by the plaintiff, but that she withdrew the complaint on inding that she was mistaken about her condition. Edward Godfrey and Miss Jennie Bowers teatined to seeing the plaintiff in company with the defendant, on the night in question, at a concert saloon in Wooster street, and, judging from the conduct of the plaintiff, thay were of the opinion that she was "inc better than she ought to be." Miss Bowers was especially hard on the plaintiff, characterizing her as "a pretty looking object to bring asseduction suit." Miss Baldwin bore up against the assaults of these wincesses with Caristian fortitude until something was said about her having behaved indecently in the presence of one Burhama, when she went into hysterics, and had to be removed from the court room.

The remainder of the trail was conducted in comparative quiet, but the absence of the plaintiff rendered the proceedings rather duil and uninteresting. The Court ordered the jury to bring in a sealed v

Police Intelligence. TWO MEN ATTEMPT TO RESCUE HIM, BUT ARE THREATENED WITH DRATH 1P THEY INTERPERS—ARREST OF A SHIP'S MATE—A POLICE OFFICER IMPLICATED.

A tragic affair, resulting in the death of a seaman named Murphy, occurred in the bay about half-past seven o'clock yesterday morning. From the facts as at present developed it appears that the ship John Bright recently arrived from Liverpool and anchored in the channel, between Governor's and Bedloe's Islands. At the hour named above Peter Gallagher and John Quinn, living respectively at 63 James and 101 Washington streets, were in the bay with a small boat, when they saw a man hauling water over the side of the ship John Bright. In a few moments afterwards they heard a splash in the water, and, looking in the direction of the ship again, saw a man overboard. In a moment Gallagher and Quinn pulled their boat towards the man, with the view of rescuing him, when they were brought to a suddon standaill by the appearance of Charles Eaton, first mate of the Bright, who, with pistol in hand, shouted to them "Lot that man alone or I'll blow your brains out," at the same time pointing the platol towards them. Being afraid to move, lest their lives should be sacrificed, Gallagher and Quinn saw Murphy, almost within their reach, struggling for life, sink out of their sight. He did not appear on the surface agaid, and of course was drowned. At the time Eaton appeared at the shiph side and threatened the lives of Gallagher and Quinn they saw standing beside him a police object, whose name subsequently appeared to be Richard Brew, of the Twenty-sixth precinct. After the sailor was drowned the two boatmen rowed ashers and informed Ergeant Holland, of the harbor police, of what had occurred; whe veupon the sergeant boarded the Hight and arrested Faton, the mate. The serveant also there met officer Brew, and said him why he did not ship again, saw a man overboard. In a moment Gallainterfere to save Murphy and 'great the mate, and was told by Brew that he had son nothing which justified him in arresting Eaton. Gallagher and Quinn appeared before the magistrate, and testified to the facis mainly as strict above. Patrick Cosgrove, of Hamilton street, who was near the Bright, in a skiff, at the time of the eccurrence, saw the deceased in the water and attempted to roscue him, but he sank before it was possible to reach the spot. Officer Brew was summoned before Justice Dowling, and testified to being on board the Bright, and saw Eaton take a pistol from an lexitic poyke; and threaten to shoot some presons who were alongside the ship if they did not clear away. The witness was on the opposite side of the vessel from Eaton, and as soon as he heard him say his wo und shoot, he went over and told him not to shoot and directive affectivates took the usted from him. Brew. says he couldnot see who is was heard to shap that Eaton threatened. Yesterday afternoon the prisoner was arraigned before the magistrate for examination on the charge preferred against him. He said:—"I did not know that there was a man overbeard at the time; I owlered the boat off; I had atrict orders from my captain not to allow any boat to come alongside of the vessel, as we had lost a great many of our crew by their jumping overboard; I could not see the man." Eaton is twenty-tight years of age, a nailwe of Maine, and lives at 299 Navy street, Brooklyn. Justice Dowling committed him to the Tombs, without bail, on the charge of causing the death of Murphy. The remains of deceased were not recovered, and perhaps never will be. It is more than probable that officer Brew will be called before the Board of Police Commissioners to explain his conduct in the matter.
